

At the forefront of Caribbean and global thought, imagination and action

About The University of the West Indies (UWI)

Supported by 15 Caribbean nations, UWI is committed to driving the economic, social, political and cultural development of West Indian society through its teaching, research, innovation, advisory and community services and intellectual leadership.

With 3 main campuses—Mona in Jamaica, St. Augustine in Trinidad, and Cave Hill in Barbados—and University Centers in 12 smaller islands (known as the UWI-12), this institution covers some 2,425 kilometers and currently enrolls an average 36,000 students.

UWI graduates continue to be at the forefront of Caribbean and global thought, imagination and action. In the US Diaspora, UWI alumni have excelled in every sector—Fortune 500 companies, Ivy League universities, the fields of medicine and entrepreneurship just to name a few!

UWI is internationally known for academic and research excellence. Within the region, it stands proudly as an icon of Caribbean integration and culture.

About the American Foundation for The University of the West Indies

For more than 50 years AFUWI has been providing scholarships and grants and funding special projects to foster the development of The University of the West Indies.

Established as a 501(c) (3) charitable organization, AFUWI holds a special dispensation to raise funds in the United States and grant tax-deductible benefits to US donors funding a non-American institution. The Foundation is a US-based organization and is subject to all state and federal regulatory guidelines. Its audited financials are available from the US Attorney's Generals office.

Scholarship donors will receive periodic reports on the academic progress of their scholarship recipient(s).
